Grammar Review

a + el = al When there is a masculine noun after “a” in a Spanish sentence signifying “to”, the words are combined as above.

Ejemplo/Example:

Voy al garaje.- I go to the garage.

There is no combination with feminine nouns.

Ejemplo/Example:

Voy a la parada de autobùs. I go to the bus stop.

Son las diez y cuarto. = 10:15

Es la una. = 1:00

Son las cuatro y media. = 4:30

Son las siete y veinte. = 7:20

Es la una y cinco. = 1:05

Mediodía. = 12:00 noon

Great work! Keep practicing! ☺

Notas Culturales / Class Activities

Today we talked about the usage of the verb SER to describe occupations.

Ejemplo/Example: Yo soy maestro.= I am a teacher. When using soy the “un” and “una” do not need to be added to the sentence. In Latin America occupations do not define people the way they often do in the United States.

Ejemplo/Example: If you were to ask someone in Peru what they do, they would likely answer with their hobbies and in the United States this would typically be answered with their career.
