Notas Culturales / Class Activities

This week's feature food region is Oaxaca, México. Oaxaca is popular for its different mole sauces. Mole is a complex paste made up of nuts and spices and even chocolate! Mole is often served over meat, seafood or vegetables. Oaxaca is also known for its famous chile covered chapulines (grasshoppers, which are cooked and eaten alone as a snack or in tacos. People in Oaxaca sell these at the local markets or mercados and at sporting events as snacks. Ask your students if they would be brave enough to taste a chapuline if they visited Oaxaca! ¡TAREA! Next time your family goes to a Mexican restaurant order one of the dishes with mole. Report back to your teacher if you liked it or not!
