

Level V

Vocabulary List

chistoso-funny joven-young mayor-older padres-parents
Me gusta-I like (or it is pleasing to me)
Te gusta-You like (or it is pleasing to you) Le gusta-He/she like (or it is pleasing to malo (a)-bad bueno (a)-good

Más información

Bueno and malo are unique adjectives! They do not have to trade places with the noun, but if they do not trade places with the noun, and if the noun is masculine and singular, “bueno” loses its “o” and becomes “buen.” For example, “Juan es un buen chico y Juana es una buena chica.” Because “chico” is masculine and singular, “bueno” became “buen.” Because “chica” is feminine and singular, nothing happened.

Notas Culturales / Class Activities

Amigos! Today we practiced the formula:
subject pronouns + conjugation of Ser + adjective by playing a game of conjugation buddies.

We are just focusing on Ser in the singular, but playing the Ser song to the tune of Jason Mraz is fun for everyone! Look it up to listen at home: The SER song – YouTube by Senorita Rau.

This class!

Today we worked on a called Mis fotos.
We are creating a “photo album” of family members or friends and writing two complete descriptive sentences about them.
When students write their name at the top of their project it will say Por +their name. Por in this case means by.

¡OJO! REMEMBER TO PRACTICE BASIC CONVERSATIONS:

Practice using Me gusta/te gusta/Le gusta!

Persona 1: ¿Te gusta la clase de música?

Persona 2: No, no me gusta la clase de música.

Persona 1: ¿A tu hermana le gusta la clase de música

Persona 2: Sí. Mi hermana le gusta la clase de música.

These phrases literally translate as “is pleasing to”. Therefore, Mi hermana le gusta la clase de música is literally, Music class is pleasing to my sister.

Information

Please contact the Futura Language Professionals Coordinator, SandyO@FuturaAdventures.com with any questions about Spanish class.