

Notas Culturales

- ❖ Students in many Latin American countries come home during the day to have lunch. Their entire families meet and it is the biggest and most important meal of the day. Because of this, their lunches are sometimes two hours and their days are much longer.
- ❖ In Mexico, first students go to la escuela primaria, then secundaria, and then "prepa." There are many public and private universities as well. A public university is very inexpensive.
- ❖ After you learn the new vocabulary for lunch, talk about Mexican food. Do the students think that the Mexican children eat the same thing as us for lunch? Why or why not?