- 1. Most verbs in Spanish are regular verbs, and they follow easy patterns of conjugation.
- 2. Spanish verbs have three possible endings in their infinitive forms: -ar, -er, -ir.
- 3. Today, you are learning about verbs that end in -ar in their infinitive form. (The infinitive form of the verb "buy" in English would be to buy. In Spanish, it is comprar.)

iConjugation!

- Step 1: Find the infinitive  $\rightarrow$  mirar
- Step 2: Drop the "AR" to leave the STEM  $\rightarrow$  mirate  $\rightarrow$  cant

Step 3: Add the new ending  $\rightarrow$  yo miro

уо	nosotros
tú	vosotros
él/ella/usted	ellos/ellas/ustedes

Here's how that looks with an actual verb: NECESITAR

уо	necesit o	nosotros	necesit amos
tú	necesit as	vosotros	necesit áis
él/ella/usted	necesit a	ellos/ellas/ustedes	necesit an

Now, try it out yourself with each verb listed below: COMPRAR

уо	nosotros
tú	vosotros
él/ella/usted	ellos/ellas/ustedes

Mnemonic Devices for Vocabulary:

Tricks to Help You Remember

MIRAR: to look at. To remember this one, keep in mind how it sounds like "mirror."

BUSCAR: to search/

look for. This one depends on the spelling of buscar: bus
+ car. Think of someone running late or caught in bad weather, looking desperately for a bus, a car, or any way to get where they are going!

OTHER TRICKS TO HELP YOU REMEMBER ...

NECESITAR: to need. Do you see the same root as the word "necessary?" If it's necessary, we need it.

CAMBIAR: to change, which sounds like "can be ours." We can change an endless number of times and anything can be ours.

COMPRAR: to buy. It may help to think of how you compare different items before you decide to buy one. Be careful, though! The Spanish verb for "compare" is very similar: comparar.
