Students learned about Thanksgiving traditions in the United States and compared them to harvest and family celebrations in Spanish-speaking countries. We discussed how different cultures celebrate with unique foods, customs, and holidays, while sharing common values such as gratitude, family, and coming together for special meals.

Conversation Practice

Doy gracias por – I'm grateful for...

Gracias – Thank you

Notas Culturales

This week, students explored how different cultures celebrate family, gratitude, and harvest traditions. We compared Thanksgiving in the United States with harvest festivals and family celebrations in Spanish-speaking countries such as Mexico, Peru, Ecuador, and Bolivia. Students learned that while traditions and foods may vary around the world, many cultures share the values of spending time with loved ones, enjoying special meals, and giving thanks.
